About SparkMinds J.S.C

Quality Assurance By Quality Gates

Quality Gate 1: Code Scanner

Prior to merging and deploying the code, the system utilizes the SonarQube tool for code scanning, reviewing coding conventions, best practices, identifying bugs, and other issues. The developer is responsible for addressing all SonarQube findings before proceeding to Quality Gate 2.

Quality Gate 2: Code Review

Before merging and deploying the code, it undergoes review and approval by another developer to detect potential problems related to coding logic or any impact on other functionalities.

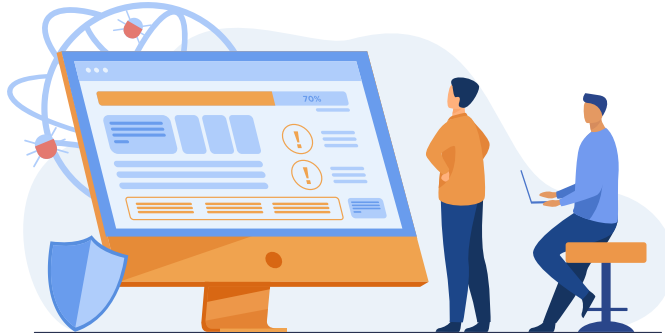

Quality Gate 3: Acceptance Criteria

This involves a checklist of features that must be completed for each function. The Business Analyst creates the checklist based on the Acceptance Criteria, ensuring that no criteria are missed. Prior to code review, the developer must confirm the successful completion of the Basic Check for the respective function.

About SparkMinds J.S.C

Quality Gate 4: Deeply Testing

Once functions are deployed to the staging environment, the testing team evaluates their quality. They utilize pre-defined test cases, project experience, and specific testing techniques to assess the function's quality. At the conclusion of the testing process, a final assessment is made to determine whether the function is eligible to proceed to Quality Gate 5.

Quality Gate 5: Sprint Review

At the end of each Sprint, the Product Owners and Stakeholders review the completed features/functions during the Sprint Review meeting. Based on these discussions, the Product Owner, in consultation with the Stakeholders, decides which functionalities will be released to production and which require further updates.
